

Christina Hale-Elliott is the founder and principal consultant of Elliott Educational Services. In that capacity, she provides technical assistance and professional development to Pre-K through 12 public school districts, independent schools, teacher education programs, and parent advocacy groups across the country to promote equitable student outcomes through the use of culturally responsive and sustaining education. Most recently, she served as the Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Consultant for La Cañada Unified School District.

Christina has been in the field of social justice education for over 20 years, having served as an English teacher, literacy coach, university lecturer and supervisor of teacher education. A native of Pasadena, she received her bachelor's degree from UCLA and her master's degree in teaching and curriculum from Harvard University.

LinkedIn

Twitter

Select Publications & Media Appearances

- Last Week I Told My Black Son a Lie
- Diversity Report Spurs LCUSD Board to Confront Inequity
- To My Black Son's Future Teacher
- From Starbucks to Schoolyards